ROOSEVELT AT THE WEDDING.

THE PRESIDENT ATTENDS THE M'CORMICK-HANNA NUPTIALS.

Spends the Day at the Hanna Home and Leaves Late in the Evening-Greets the Ohio Senator With "Hello, Uncle Mark!"-Has Some of the Hanna Hash.

CLEVELAND, June 10 .- President Roosevelt's party reached Cleveland by special train at 5:50 o'clock this morning to attend the wedding of Miss Ruth Hanna, daughter of Senator Marcus A. Hanna and Joseph Medill McCormick of Chicago, son of Robert S. McCormick, Ambassador to Russia. After a short delay at the station the President and Miss Roosevelt were driven direct to Glenmere, the Hanna home. Secretary Loeb, Capt. Cowles, Dr. A. G. Grundwell and M. C. Latta, the President'sstenographer, were housed at the Holland Hotel. Chief of Police Kohler and a squad of policemen met the party at the station and were with the President all day, as were also several Secret Service men.

Senator Hanna and Miss Ruth emerged from the house as the Presidential party turned into the broad drive. As the President's carriage reached the porte-cochère the Senator ran down the steps bareheaded and was closely followed by Miss Ruth. The door of the President's equipage swung open:

"Hello, Uncle Mark," sang out a voice from within. "Who said Uncle Mark?" asked the Senator, his hands uplifted and his face wreathed in smiles. "I did," cheerily answered the President, his foot on the carriage step. A second later he was shaking the Senator's hand and the Misses Alice and Ruth embraced and exchanged a sisterly kiss. The President and Miss Alice were ushered into the house where the President received the other where the Freshent received the service wedding guests.

One of the features of the breakfast was corned beef hash of the celebrated Hanna kind. After breakfast the President, Mr. Hanna and Ambassador McCormick took a short walk. When they returned they joined Senators Hale, Aldrich, Kean and Wetmers on the porch in the rear of the Wetmore on the porch in the rear of the house, and sat in the sun, smoking and conversing. Mr. Roosevelt later attended conversing. Mr. Roosevelt later attended the Hanna-McCormick wedding, escort-ing Mrs. Hanna in the bridal procession and leaving the church arm-in-arm with Senator Hanna. The President put in the afternoon and evening at the Hanna home and left for Washington at 11 o'clock to-

FATHER BILL" DALY A SINGER. Delights Audience at Brighton Beach, but Balks at Making a Speech.

"Father Bill" Daly, the horseman, went on the stage again last evening and made a great hit. It was at a vaudeville performance at the Brighton Music Hall, Brighton Beach, for the benefit of the Roman Catholic Church of the Guardian

"Father Bill" sang two songs and although he did get off the key a few times, though he did get off the key a few times, nobody cared for that. On the contrary, the 1,800 persons in the audience clapped, stamped, cheered and shouted.

The first song was "My Darling, Still Waiting for Me," the second, "Sweet Bessie of the Lea." The energetic horseman had finished the second verse of the latter song when Jockeys O'Connor and Creamer of his stable came on the stage, all in racing his stable came on the stage, all in racing rig.

Each jockey carried a big bouquet to the singer. He took them, but when he sailed into the third verse of his song he found that he couldn't sing without waving his arms, so he stopped, called the jockeys out and made them hold the bouquets.

When "Father Bill" finished the crowd went wild and called for a speech. There the horseman balked. He said merely that he horsed he'd dare sing again some that he hoped he'd dare sing again some

DEVERY ON GUESSIN' VOTES.

TICKLES HIM TO HAVE ODELL COME AT HIM WITH 3,000.

Guess of 8.000 Last Year Which Would Have Gone Wrong, but for Voerhis, Hurdy-Gurdles and All - Deeds of Spartacus Among the Marquises. Devery talked to "business men of the Ninth Assembly district," in the Grand Opera House last evening.

"My friends," he said, "this is your fight for yourselves and your homes and the right to earn a n honest living at fair pay. You think you're getting a fair day's pay for a fair day's work, but, alas, poor Yorick! You can't make both ends and the middle meet to save you. The trusts and monopolies has got you and they dress you down from the back of your head to the soles of your feet. You take your money home to your wife and it's spent before you get it there. And who gets it? The trusts and the political grafters." Then he went on:

And now they're tryin' to put the labor unions out of business. Only yesterday they arrested, just at nightfall, a man who has been standin' by his union and protectin' it from that dirtiest of all things, the scab. And they threw him into a dungeon, after three pieces of property had been offered as bail for him. They refused the bail and locked in the Tombs overnight a man in the last stages of consumption, a man who is dyin' on his feet. And they think they can put the unions out of business that way. [A voice: "But they can't."] No, they can't, if you stand by your unions. Then he went on:

voice: "But they can't."] No, they can't, if you stand by your unions.

My friends, those political grafters in Fourteenth street done you to do me. Now, all we sak is fair play of the press, and I want to say to the press here and now: You go sak that bunch in Fourteenth street if they ye got anything on me, and when you hear what they say, you print it. But I'll give you the answer before they can. I tell you they ain't got anything on me. If I'd been willin to take a nice soft place and keep still maybe the district would have got what it's entitled to.

I see some folks say this movement won't amount to anything and that Devery runnin' for Mayor is a fake. Parkhurst says I'll get 25,000 votes. He's got some more guesses. And Platt says I'll get 20,000. [A voice: "That's 45,000."] Young man, you're a grand mathematician, but if this damned city government would give us more schools, more day schools and night schools and industrial schools, we'd have more mathematicians.

dustrial schools, we'd have more mathematicians.

Gov. Odell took a look at the guessin' and he said we'd get 3,000. There's more coming to him. But I want to tell you, friends, if Mr. Murphy had taken my advice, as I told him to, and hadn't appointed Mr. Voorhis Commissioner of Elections, Cov. Odell's hurdy-gurdies [presumably voting machines] up the State, that was grindin' up headstones and all, couldn't have worked fast enough to count him in. But Mr. Voorhis was down here and Mr. Odell got 8,000 or 9,000 majority. But if you stand by yourselves Mr. Odell won't be botherin' you after this year.

A friend of mine was tellin' the other day about Spartacus of old, who went out and annihilated kings and emperors and nobles and lords and marquises. If we get fair play and stand up, for our rights we'll annihilate these political grafters who are deprivin' you of your rights, Marquis of Wantage and all.

COMPULSORY GERMAN. Board of Education Decides to Think It

Over Again. Commissioner Guy attacked the new rule about German at a meeting yesterday of the Executive Committee of the Board of Education. He wants the study of German made compulsory for two years in the public schools instead of elective for one year, as an alternative with French

"A knowledge of German is necessary for the boy who is training for a business life. It takes three years to learn stenoglife. It takes three years to learn stenography, and how can you expect a pupil to learn a foreign language in one year? The act of abolishing German was an act of know-nothingism on the part of the City Superintendent."

Gen. Wingate dissented. "The German language is a luxury, just as Franch is," said he, "and the pupils have all they can do studying American and other histories and the other necessary branches of study."

and the other necessary branches of study."

Commissioner Mack said the whole agitation was made by German newspapers and German organizations which wanted to perpetuate the German language. to perpetuate the German language.
Supt. Maxwell said: "In many of the schools of Manhattan and Brooklyn, English is a foreign language to most of the pupils, and it is English we want them to learn. To compel these children to study another foreign language when they so badly need a knowledge of English would be a crime."

On motion of Mr. Stern it was decided to call a special meeting of the Board of Education for next Wednesday to consider the proposition of Mr. Guy.

NEW SOURCE OF RUBBER FOUND. COP PUNCHED PHIL WISSIG. Roots of a Plant in the French Congo Give

Large Supply.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, June 10.-It is said that the world's rubber industry is likely to be completely revolutionized by the introduction of a fibrous rubber obtained from the roots of a plant discovered by a French botanist on the sandy plains of the French Congo. Specimens of the plant, which has been scientifically named Landolphia thrallonii, had been previously collected in sever places, including Lower Guinea and the lower Congo, but the plant was never commercially utilized until very recently, when a French firm realized its lucrative possibilities and has since produced excellent rubber, which sells for three shillings a pound.

An English firm, headed by John Holt, has been approached with the view to introducing the manufacture into Great Britain, and Mr. Holt is employing agents to seek the plant in northern Nigeria, where he hopes there is an important supply. Botanical and other experts predict a ma terial increase of imports from the new source, which will greatly influence the market

THEY COULDN'T AGREE ON THE SIZE OF DEVERY'S VOTE.

Made a Bet and the Policeman Wanted to Back Out-He Knocked Out Two of Wissig's Teeth and Then Wissig Sent Him to the Floor With a Knockeut.

The Hon. Phil Wissig, who is now one of the shining Tammany lights in de Ate, stopped everybody who went into his Grand street saloon last night and showed two large front teeth, which, he explained had been knocked out of his mouth by a policeman who differed with him as to the size of the vote Devery would get.

Wissig had his encounter with the policeman on last Monday afternoon in Pat Farley's saloon and restaurant at Grand street and the Bowery. Wissig says he knows the name of the policeman, who was in uniform and who hails from the Tenderin precinct.
Wissig was at dinner when the policeman loin precinct.

Wissig was at dinner when the policeman began talking about Devery's chances for Mayor. Devery would get 25,000 votes, he said, and he was willing to wager $60 on his prediction. Wissig told the policeman that Devery wouldn't get 5,000 votes. There was some more talk and Wissig slapped $50 on a table andraid he would take the policeman's bet. The money was put in the hands of a stakeholder.

In a few minutes, according to Wissig's friends, the coptried to withdraw his money. Wissig wouldn't let him and they had some words. Suddenly the policeman reached over toward Wissig, who was sitting at a table eating, and punched him in the mouth. Wissig was knocked over the back of a chair, but he jumped up and landed a swing on the policeman's nose.

According to persons who were in the place at the time the policeman was lifted over two tables and received a clean knock-out. It was some time before he came to, and when he did he wanted to go at Wissig again. He was hustled out of the place and taken to a barber shop, where his damaged nose was dressed.

The Tammany men in "de Ate" think that Wissig is a great man because he knocked out the policeman. They say that the Wissig is a great man because he knocked out the policeman. They say that the policeman was twice the size of Wissig, who is more than 60 years old.

RULING ON THE BAILEY LAW. Justice Mayer Interprets the Section Abou Houses 100 Feet Apart.

An interesting automobile speeding decision was handed down yesterday by Justice Julius M. Mayer in Special Sessions, in the case of Gustave Lippman, who was arrested on May 17 for driving his motor car fifteen miles an hour in 189th street, near Webster avenue.

The officer who made the arrest had measured off 264 feet on Webster avenue, and timed Lippman over the distance in twelve seconds. Then he arrested him on a charge of violating Chapter 268 of the Laws of 1902, which makes it a misdemeanor to run an automobile faster than eight miles an hour in a town, except where a city ordian hour in a town, except where a city ordi-nance permits a greater rate.

When asked whether the houses in the neighborhood were less than a hundred feet apart, the policeman could only say that "some of them were." Justice Mayer then granted Lawyer McGuire's motion to dis-miss the complaint. In so doing he pointed out that the old law was limited by the more recent Chapter 625 of the Laws of 1903, the out that the old law was limited by the more recent Chapter 625 of the Laws of 1903, the Bailey law, which says that no ordinance may be passed forcing automobiles to run slower than fifteen miles where the buildings are more than 100 feet apart. Justice Mayer said that there was no evidence before him to show that the "general character" of the neighborhood was a house to every hundred feet.

DIVORCE QUESTION PUT OFF. Reformed Church May Next Year Interdict

Marriage of Persons Separated by Law. ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 10 .- The Reformed Church of America is not yet committed on the question of the marriage of divorced persons. The synod to-day, on motion of Dr. James M. Vance of Newark, voted to leave the matter in the hands special committee, which is port to the Synod next year.

It was evident that the members of the Synod were inclined to give ample time for calm deliberation before committing the Reformed Church on so important a subject. Inquiry, however, developed the fact that a strong and perhaps overwhelm-ing majority of the ministers favored a drastic curtailment of the privileges now enjoyed by divorcees and there is no ques-tion that the subject will be voted on at Grand Rapids next year.

The Synod is going to do something more generous for disabled ministers and their widows, and a good part of the discussion of the day was devoted to that subject.

Dr. Burrell said that the ministers were received to the day was devoted to the subject. poorly paid, and if they were not men of God they would go on strike. The final adjournment took place at 8

PARK ROADS IN BAD SHAPE.

Commissioner Willeox Will Take Steps

Have Them Made Over. Park Commissioner Willcox received re ports from Samuel Parsons, Jr., the landscape architect, and Supt. Murphy, yesterscape architect, and Supt. Murphy, yesterday, that the surface of the East Drive in Central Park, from the Mall to 110th street, was in a bad way and that the West Drive was also bad in spots. They reported that the roads were dangerous to horses in wet weather because of the slippery condition of the surface.

The Commissioner said that he proposed to have the surface of the East and West drives made over with gravel immediately.

McCall Sits in Sinking Fund. Alderman McCall, sitting for the first time yesterday in the Sinking Fund Commission, opened his mouth only once. Dock Comnissioner Hawkes recommended the granting of an application by the Baltimore and Ohio for the adding of 120 feet to its pier at the foot of Harrison street, the company offering to pay a pro rata share of the cost. Mr. McCall said he would like to look into the matter and asked that it be laid over for a week, which was done.

Portraits for the Catholic University. A movement has been started to have every Roman Catholic diocese in the United States contribute to Statuary Hall, at the Catholic University at Washington, a statue Catholic University at Washington, a statue or painting of the ruling Bishop, and to have each province present astatue of its Archbishop, as the gifts of the clergy of the dioceses. Boston has been the first to adopt the plan. The clergy of that archdiocese have ordered a life-sized portrait of Archbishop John Joseph Williams.

Capt. Goddard's Motto Is Excelsior. For such as needed that assurance, the announcement was made last night that Capt. Norton Goddard isn't going to be Capt. Norton Goddard isn't going to be president of the Republican County Committee. Friends of the Captain said he wouldn't take the place, and others went so far as to say he had refused it, but they couldn't recall who had offered it to him. One of Capt. Goddard's friends thought last night that he saw Destiny beckoning the Captain on to high places. Captain on to high places.

AMBASSADOR FROM D. B. HILL. A Guess at John A. Mason's Business With the Hon. Hugh McLaughlin.

John A. Mason, clerk of the Democratic State Committee, was a visitor at the Willoughby street auction room in Brooklyn yesterday and for a short time was closeted with Hugh McLaughlin in the inner sanctum. Neither Mr. Mason the inner sanctum. Neither Mr. Mason nor Mr. McLaughlin would disclose what the confab was about, but some of the latter's lieutenants surmised that Mr. Mason had come to see the leader of the Kings county organization with a message from ex-Senator David B. Hill, whose political relations with Mr. McLaughlin remain undisturbed, in spite of the supposed hostility of James Shevlin, Senator McCarren and other powerful district leaders to the predominance of Mr. Hill in State politics.

leaders to the predominance of Mr. Hill in State politics.

It was thought that Mr. Mason might have been sent by Mr. Hill to Mr. McLaughlin to seek his cooperation in checking the rumored ambition of ex-Mayor Hugh J. Grant to assume a leading part in the management of the State machine.

It was learned yesterday that Mr. McLaughlin is quietly engaged in the solidification of the German-American yoters in Brooklyn, who acted with the fusionists in the last Mayoralty campaign, but who are now strongly opposed to the renomination of Mayor Low. Mr. Shevlin has been doing some missionary work in this direction and is confident that most of the independent German organizations will supposed to the renomination of Mayor Low. pendent German organizations will sup-port the regular Democratic ticket this

SURE THEY HAVE THE SHOOTER Police Have Little Doubt That Coscone

Fired Into the Crowd of Italians. The police were able to learn little yesterday as to the cause for Tuesday night's shooting in Mulberry street, when Giammarino Santaniello was killed and five others wounded. Capt. Murtha of the Elizabeth street station is positive that Raffaelo Coscone, the brewery collector who was arrested, committed the murder and that he was accompanied by his brother and that he was accompanied by his brother Domenico. Coscone was sent to the Tombs without bail yesterday by the Coroner. Domenico Coscone is still at large.

The prisoner was taken to the Hudson street hospital yesterday morning and Diriclo Siniscato, the murdered man's cousin, whose jaw was shot away, wrote that Raffaelo Coscone was the shooter. So far as could be learned, the murder grew out of a recent quarrel between Giammarino Santaniello and Raffaelo Coscone.

CITY WON'T PAY GEN. ROE'S RENT. Sinking Fund Says the State Must Hire Its Own Headquarters.

The Sinking Fund Commission refused yesterday to provide Major-Gen. Roe, commander of the National Guard, with commander of the National Guard, with headquarters any longer. The Mayor and Comptroller agreed that the fact that Gen. Roe wishes to have his headquarters in this city is no reason why the municipality should be called upon to pay the rental. Gen. Roe will consequently have to look to the State authorities for rent money. The city has been renting rooms in the Stewart Building for him.

PROGRESS ON WAR VESSELS. Of the Battleships the Missouri Is the Only

One Nearing Completion. WASHINGTON, June 10 .- While the progess reports for May received by the Chief Constructor of the Navy show that work on war vessels being built went ahead during the month at a rate which was a great improvement on records for previous months, the Missouri, of all the battleships. is the only one anywhere near completion. Only 7 per cent. of work remains to be done on her, and she will be placed in commis-

EMBEZZLER AND FORGER. Young Clerk in the District of Columbia

Auditor's Office Steals $75,000. WASHINGTON, June 10 .- J. M. A. Watson, young clerk in the offices of the Commissioners of the District, drawing a salary of $1,420 a year, has stolen something like

$75,000, and already disposed of most of it. The system of accounting in the District offices has always been the special pride of those in charge of it, and yet it was no system at all, for according to the official statements there was always a fund of $25,000 to $50,000 lying around loose, out of which anybody could help himself, and so Watson took advantage to the fullest extent by putting all of it in his pocket. The Commissioners of the District of Co-lumbia never heard of the robbery until a newspaper reporter informed them yesterday, and then they sent in hot haste terday, and then they sent in hot haste for Auditor Petty, and demanded the facts. They got them in short order from Mr. Petty, who had known all about the crime since last Saturday, but had kept still about it hoping that he could make the youthful offender or his well-to-do father-in-law make good the shortage.

Perhaps the most remarkable feature of this remarkable case is the fact that Watson, who was not bonded, and had access to all the money in the auditor's office, has a record in Washington that puts Machen, Beavers and the whole bunch of accused, but not yet convicted, grafters of the Post Office Department to the blush. Watson, about thirteen years ago, committed a series of forgeries by which he obtained about $2,750. He was then a clerk in the office of a real estate man in Washington; and when arrested his family and friends convinced the Judge that he was only 17 years old, so they sent him to the District Reform School to remain until he was 21. But that seemed such a brutal punishment for such a slight offence, which Watson now refers to as "a youthful indiscretion," that the prisoner was allowed to go free after wearing the uniform of a reform for such a slight offence, which Watson now refers to as "a youthful indiscretion," that the prisoner was allowed to go free after wearing the uniform of a reform school boy for about six weeks.

Not profiting by his six weeks of discipline in the reform school, Watson was turned loose upon the community and has been connected with various somewhat shady transactions. Through it all, however, Auditor Petty has been his friend and when he visited the young man in jail last night he threw his arms about Watson's neck and wept with him.

DEFALCATION OF $3,000. Warrant Out for the Arrest of the Curater of Georgetown University. WASHINGTON, June 10.-A defaication of $8,000 has been disclosed in the books of Delgado Crafton, curator of the medical department of Georgetown Uni-medical department of Georgetown University, and a warrant has been issued for his arrest. Crafton, however, disappeared several days ago, and so far the police have been unable to locate him. He has also been acting as the agent here of several publishing houses which handle text books, but as he left no papers showing his standing with the publishers, it is not known whether they suffered.

Crafton has been employed by the medical school for about a year, having come to the faculty highly recommended from the Southern Railway, with which he was employed as a clerk at his home in North Carolina. He was recently married.

A further investigation into the case has brought out the fact that Crafton had lost the misappropriated money at the Bennings racetrack last spring, instead of making deposits entrusted to him by the school.
